

Edmund Rice College

Acceptable Use Policy

Context

The use of Information and Communications Technology (hereafter "ICT"), social media, mobile phones and other devices is now a feature of modern society and such technology is integral to the lives of most of our students.

Edmund Rice College uses instructional technology as one method of teaching and learning and, in order to support our students in becoming proficient in the competencies essential for success in a 21st Century learning environment, the school provides a variety of resources to support its curriculum.

However, the school's classes and activities need to be conducted in an environment free from unnecessary distractions or disruptions. It is important that all those associated with Edmund Rice College use technology responsibly, ethically and respectfully of others. This policy has been drawn up to ensure that modern technologies are used appropriately.

For the purpose of this policy, the words technology and device shall be taken to mean any personal electronic items, such as (but not restricted to) computers, laptops, netbooks, cameras, mobile phones, smartwatches, eReaders, gaming devices such as Nintendo DS, etc.

It is envisaged that school and parent representatives will be involved in the review of this policy on a regular basis.

Aim of Policy

The aim of this Internet Acceptable Use Policy (AUP) is to ensure that students will benefit from the learning opportunities offered by the school's internet resources in a safe and effective manner. The policy applies to students of Edmund Rice College. It also applies to members of staff, volunteers, parents, carers and others who access the internet in Edmund Rice College.

Internet use and access is considered a school resource. If the school AUP is not adhered to, this privilege may be withdrawn and appropriate sanctions will be imposed.

When using the internet students, staff and those associated with the school, including parents, are expected:

- To treat others with respect at all times;
- Not undertake any actions that may bring the school into disrepute;
- Respect the right to privacy of all other members of the school community;
- Respect copyright and acknowledge creators when using online content and resources.

Misuse of the resource may result in disciplinary action, including written warnings, withdrawal of access privileges, detention and, in extreme cases, suspension or expulsion. The school also reserves the right to report any inappropriate use of this resource to the appropriate authorities.

Edmund Rice College will deal with incidents that take place outside the school that impact on the wellbeing of students or staff under this policy and associated codes of behaviour and anti-bullying policies. In such cases Edmund Rice College may, where known, inform parents/guardians of incidents of inappropriate online behaviour that take place out of school and impose the appropriate sanctions. With respect to the school's statutory obligations, it may also report behaviour to the necessary authorities.

Legislation and Education

The school and this policy is guided by the following pieces of legislation which students, staff, school personnel and parents should familiarise themselves with;

- Data Protection Act 1988 (and Amendment Act 2003)
- <http://www.dataprotection.ie/>
- <http://www.irishstatutebook.ie/1988/en/act/pub/0025/index.html>
- <http://www.irishstatutebook.ie/2003/en/act/pub/0006/index.html>
- Child Trafficking and Pornography Act 1998
- <http://www.irishstatutebook.ie/1998/en/act/pub/0022/index.html>
- Interception Act 1993
- <http://www.irishstatutebook.ie/1993/en/act/pub/0010/print.html>
- Video Recordings Act 1989
- <http://www.irishstatutebook.ie/1989/en/act/pub/0022/index.html>

Edmund Rice College implements a number of strategies in order to maximise learning opportunities and reduce risks associated with the Internet. These strategies are as follows on promoting safe use of the internet and understanding the implications of relevant legislation by:

- Ensuring students will be provided with information on the importance of internet safety and the appropriate use of the internet as part of their ICT class in first-year;
- Addressing issues of online safety and appropriate use of technology as part of the students' SPHE curriculum;
- Internet sessions will always be supervised by a teacher and those students who have access to laptops should also be monitored if connecting to the internet;
- Filtering software and/or equivalent systems is used in order to minimise the risk of exposure to inappropriate material;
- Students accessing the internet via WiFi will have their usage monitored and those who access the internet in the computer room have their usage monitored;
- Students and teachers will be provided with training in the area of internet safety;
- Uploading and downloading of non-approved software will not be permitted;
- Virus protection software is used;
- The use of personal memory sticks, CD-ROMs, or other digital storage media, requires a teacher's permission;
- Downloading of data file are restricted;
- Students will treat others with respect at all times and will not undertake any actions that may bring the school into disrepute.

Mobile Phones (including internet enabled devices)

- Students may bring their mobile phones to school but need to abide by the school's Code of Behaviour in respect to their use.
- Mobile phones or electronic devices should never be brought into an exam as the SEC does not permit them in State Exams. If there is an issue with the use of a mobile phone/electronic device during an exam, the rules that govern such a breach with the SEC shall act as a guide for the school;
- Phones and devices should not be used in any way between classes, before classes, etc. Phones may only be used once classes/study/extra-curricular activities have finished and students have left the school premises.
- If a student needs to contact home urgently, they will be allowed to use the phone in the school office. If parents need to contact children urgently, they should phone the school and the message will be relayed. Parents should not text students during the school day because if students are abiding by the rules they will not see the message until school is finished.

- In the event of a dispute about whether these rules have been breached, the phone shall be handed over immediately to the teacher who will give it to the principal or deputy principal so the matter can be investigated. Failure to hand over the phone immediately shall be considered a serious matter.
- At all times, the privacy of a student shall be respected. Where the data on a phone is accessed it shall only be to determine whether there has been misuse of the phone, not to monitor the private activities of the owner. However, students and parents need to be aware of the fact that a mobile phone has no filtering on it, thus allowing students to access sites that they will not be able to access using the school's internet.

If a phone has been used to take photographs/audio or video footage:

- The student may be asked to hand over the phone if the school authorities think there may be an issue with the taking of images or audio;
- If the material (photographs/audio/video footage) has been taken with the consent of the subject(s) therein there shall be no further sanction;
- If the material has been taken without the consent of the subject(s), the student may face disciplinary action;
- If the material has been taken without the consent of the subject(s) and subsequently posted on the internet, shown to others or distributed in any manner, the student responsible needs to be aware that this may constitute a serious offence and may fall with the agreed definition of bullying as outlined in the school's Anti-Bullying Policy;
- Depending on the nature of the content viewed, the school reserves the right to contact relevant outside bodies (Gardai, Tusla, etc.) to determine the appropriate course of action.

Cyberbullying and Social Media

Edmund Rice College reserves the right to investigate and deal with incidents and activities that happen outside school time and which impact on the welfare or education of students of the school. This often applies in the case of misuse of social media sites which can lead to unfortunate online nastiness or cyber-bullying. Students shall be advised that they need to think carefully about possible serious repercussions of anything they say on the internet as well as the hurt it can cause. The minute anything unpleasant is published online it can be viewed repeatedly and by multiple users and therefore formally constitutes bullying.

Circulating, publishing or distributing on the internet material associated with school activities, including, but not limited to, material in relation to staff and students, where such circulation undermines, humiliates or causes damage to the school or another person, is considered a serious breach of the school's Code of Behaviour.

When using the internet students, parents and staff are expected to treat others with respect at all times. Engaging in online activities with the intention to harm, harass, or embarrass another pupil or member of staff is an unacceptable and absolutely prohibited behaviour, with serious consequences and sanctions for those involved.

Bullying is defined as unwanted negative behaviour, verbal, psychological or physical, conducted by an individual or group against another person (or persons) and which is repeated over time. This definition includes cyber-bullying even when it happens outside of school hours. Measures are taken by Edmund Rice College to ensure that staff and students are aware that cyber-bullying forms part of bullying behaviour.

Isolated or once-off incidents of intentional negative behaviour, including a once-off offensive or hurtful text message or other private messaging, do not fall within the definition of bullying and will be dealt with, as appropriate, in accordance with the school's code of behaviour.

The prevention of cyber bullying is an integral part of the Anti-Bullying Policy of our school.

Dealing with hurtful comments on the internet

Hurtful or offensive comments about a person, posted on the internet, can be very difficult for a student and their parents. It is essential in such situations that the student and/or their parent contacts the school so that the matter can be addressed. Students and parents can sometimes feel that drawing attention to a cyber-bullying issue will exacerbate the problem, but our experience is that failing to deal with online nastiness means it will continue and most likely worsen.

The school can offer advice and counselling to students on dealing with upsetting material.

There is also excellent advice on the internet. The website www.webwise.ie is an internet safety initiative focused on raising awareness of online safety issues and good practice among students, their parents and teachers.

School website and social media accounts

Edmund Rice College has a school website, a Facebook page and a Twitter account. The purpose of these, all administered by school staff, is to enable communication with parents/guardians and the wider community. Care is always taken to protect the identity of students, unless we have express permission from parents/guardians to identify students.

- Students will be given the opportunity to publish projects, artwork or school work on the internet in accordance with clear policies and approval processes regarding the content that can be loaded to the school's website/social media accounts.
- The website and social media accounts will be regularly checked to ensure that there is no content that compromises the safety, privacy, or reputation of students or staff.
- Webpages allowing comments or user-generated content will be checked frequently to ensure that they do not contain any inappropriate or offensive content.
- The publication of student work will be coordinated by a teacher.
