

The SPACES project in Ireland!

EDMUND RICE COLLEGE CARRIGALINE, IRELAND
26/09/2022 & 27-29/09/2022

Time for a meeting...

One more successful meeting took place in the SPACES project. This time it was held on the 26th of September 2022 in the beautiful country of Ireland and particularly in Cork. The Edmund Rice College Carrigaline was the host organization. All the school's community welcomed the SPACES consortium in their premises with a cultural event where students danced and sang traditional music. Having great excitement, the partners worked together for one day to review the deliverables of the project produced by that time, they discussed their progress, and finally, they set up and agreed on the next steps.

...and a Joint Staff Training

On the following days (27-29/09/2022), the 4th Short Term Joint Staff Training event took place. The project's team members of the Edmund Rice College Carrigaline had prepared a fantastic agenda of activities with the scope to approach the topic of "Professional Learning Communities and Building Learning Power". In this light, the partners visited various classes in the school and they saw local teachers using several methodologies in teaching creatively. There were also a series of study visits and outdoor activities such as a tour of the city of Cork - offered by students and local people, a visit to the Kinsale College of Further Education where partners had the chance to attend for a while several creative courses and finally, they visited Killarney, the Muckross Farm and the Torc waterfall to explore how learning creatively can be supported through cultural and natural heritage.

The Short Term Joint Staff Training event was completed successfully with very nice moments, new experiences and knowledge, a lot of brainstorming, and a promising feeling that the SPACES project will produce many valuable results for the school community of Europe and beyond.
